This is a clever joke about manners. Robinson Pig only considers himself to be a good little pig when he is throwing toys about, noisily gobbling his food, having a mud bath or making as much noise as possible. Mum and Dad Pig look on complacently and are only concerned when he shows signs of tidy unpiglike behaviour. The cheerful pictures are messy and fun, and the die-cutting which follows the shape of a pig's ear is unusual. A cautionary tale!
