When Mrs Bill, sausage maker extraordinaire, falls sick her customers still demand their favourite food but what can Mr Bill do? Then help seems to come in the form of a travelling salesman from whom Mr B. buys enormous quantities of Instant Super Sausage Mix. But before long the whole town is festooned with strings of flying sausages and the chase is on. Finally, the Bills become florists - a far safer occupation - and all is well. For me the strongest feature of the book is Margaret Chamberlain's humorous illustrations each of which is full of movement and colour.
